Colleen Resch-Geretti has been an SRP power and flood irrigation customer since 2000 and is running for SRP Council Division 7 District and Association. She is passionate about clean energy, water conservation, and protecting watershed. She realizes the urgency to act now and the need to create a more sustainable future for all by utilizing clean and readily available energy.

She understands that reducing greenhouse gas emissions and mitigating climate change are critical to protecting humans, wildlife, and ecosystems. She is troubled that a significant percentage of energy comes from fossil fuels while an extraordinarily small percentage of energy comes from the sun. Arizona has over 300 sunny days per year, more than any other state; we need to take advantage of this "free" resource and improve upon the utilization of solar energy.

As an SRP flood irrigation customer, Colleen realizes the importance of protecting watershed, as that is where all water starts. Since 2002, she has been instrumental in managing capital improvements to the aging irrigation system in her neighborhood and working with neighbors to eliminate water waste.
