CANDIDATE INFORMATION

Nina is an advocate, leader and builder of stronger communities. She has SRP in her DNA. After graduating from NAU, Nina began her career at SRP as a meter reader over 40 years ago. She has since worked her way up into executive leadership as the Senior Director of the Land Department and is responsible for all Real Estate transactions at SRP. She has also worked in every aspect of SRP including engineering and Water Customer service. In those senior leadership roles, she has managed 100's of SRP employees and gained a broad understanding as to how SRP functions and what it takes to achieve excellence in utility service by keeping reliability, affordability and sustainability as the primary focus which has been recognized by receipt of over 25 JD Power awards over the past 20 years.

Nina was recognized in 2019 as Woman of the Year by the AZ Business Journal and has also found her passion for giving back the community by serving on the Boards of Child Crisis Arizona, Valley of the Sun United Way, Mesa Arts Foundation, Rio Salado Foundation and the University of Idaho Executive Energy Course, just to name a few of her contributions.

Over Nina's career of dedicated service, she has built a reputation as a dynamic force for change - someone who brings both heart and expertise to every role she undertakes. Whether in the boardroom or community, Nina brings a collaborative spirit and a sharp strategic mind to every job and initiative.

Nina is a native of Arizona and has lived in the Valley of the Sun her entire life and understands the importance of our community's/customers' need to sustain economic development. She talks with SRP customers on a daily basis and understands the fundamental need for reliable, affordable and sustainable Power and Water.

Nina is the mother of 2 wonderful children Madi age 28 and Mason age 26 and has enjoyed watching them grow up to be successful adults. She raised them alongside her late husband of 30 years who passed away in 2024 after a strong struggle with cancer.
